Lions' Life Guards Save Two Lives

Virginia Hewson Brings In Ruth Birt And Applies Artificial Respiration For Six Minutes — One Saved At Grimsby Beach.

Ocell Bell, chairman of the Lion's Club committee in charge of the local bathing beaches, is wearing one of those broad smiles these days, that just cannot be erased. He has good reason to, for last week the two Lions Club life guards saved two people from drowning in the cold, dark waters of old Ontario.

On Saturday, July 24th, a Mr. Wall from Toronto, swimming off Grimsby Beach became exhausted and was in great danger of drowning when spotted by Miriam Wickham, the Lion's life guard and who immediately went to his assistance and brought him safely to shore.

On Friday afternoon last, Ruth Birt, 13, and Margaret McLellan, 13, North Grimsby girls were swimming a considerable distance out in the lake off Nelles Road. Ruth started to become exhausted and asked Margaret for help.

Gives Liberally Of His Blood

O. Meldrum Pettit of Grimsby Has Donated 21 Blood Plasma to The Red Cross.

There is a man in Grimsby that we believe holds some kind of a record, in the form of donating blood plasma.

On the 3rd day of October, 1941, O. Meldrum Pettit, 15 Ontario St., gave his first blood donation. On the 21st of July, 1943, he gave his 21st donation. A period of 21 months and 21 donations.

This is without a doubt the largest number of donations, by any one person, in this district and we believe is an Ontario record.

Canning Subsidies Are Increased

Canners Will be Reimbursed For Extra Cost Paid to Growers — Tomatoes up $3 a Ton.

Subsidies to growers of tomatoes, corn, peas and green and wax beans for canning will be paid to the growers by canners, who will recover their payments from the Agricultural Food Board, the Agriculture Department has announced.

The subsidies are in addition to the canners' purchase price which must be at least equal to that of 1941. The Food Board said that where farmers have contracted to deliver these vegetables to canners for a price which did not include the subsidy, they will receive the subsidy in addition to the contract price. If the contract included only part of the subsidy, the canner will be required to pay the difference to the grower.

Mayor of St. Catharines. The man who retrieved Lincoln for the Conservatives, in the great landslide of ballots.

St. Catharines Mayor Carries Lincoln Back Into Conservative Ranks — 986 Votes Polled in Grimsby — 854 Votes Cast in Township.

BIG C.C.F. VOTE

Township Gave Daley a Majority of 86 — Town Gave Haines Majority of 29 — It Was a Big Turnover in These Two Municipalities.

Out of yesterday's election turmoil Lincoln county found its way back into the Conservative ranks after being represented the past nine years by the Liberal party.

Mayor Daley of St. Catharines piled up a mighty fine vote in winning out with a majority of 2829 over the C.C.F. candidate Allen E. Schroeder, thus placing the late member for the peninsula, Archie Haines in the third position. Daley's majority over Haines was 3255. In 1937 Haines carried the county by 1409.

One of the biggest turnovers in favor of Daley occurred in Grimsby and North Grimsby. The town gave Haines a majority over Daley of 29 and 162 over Schroeder. In the 1937 election Haines had a majority in the town of 270.

Clinton Resident Drowned In Lake

Wilbur Montmorency, 22, Exhausted, Sank Before Help Could Reach Him — Aiding Young Lady in Boat.

An evening swim from a rowboat ending Monday night in the death of Wilbur Montmorency, 22, of Clinton Township, who drowned in an effort to overtake the boat which drifted out into the lake with Miss Kathleen Clark of Beamsville.

Montmorency, who had attended the Calvary Gospel Church service and picnic in Clinton on the lawn of his parents, had gone out in the rowboat with Miss Clark. When the boat was some 100 yards offshore, Montmorency plunged into the lake for a swim. While he was swimming, Miss Clark lost one of the oars.

A strong swimmer Montmorency retrieved the oar, and then attempted to overtake the boat which was being carried out into the lake by a strong offshore wind. Meanwhile, Rev. Mr. Benson of Calvary Gospel Church, accompanied by another man, obtained a motor boat and went to the rescue of the pair. They were approaching Montmorency when he suddenly disappeared under the waters, they reached Miss Clark, who by this time had drifted a mile out in the lake.

HOME-MADE SPRAY OUTFIT—George W. Crittenden, of Grimsby Beach, deputy reeve of North Grimsby, has built a power spraying outfit of which he is very proud. The tractor which pulls the outfit around is a 1 horse power standard machine. Working in his cellar throughout the winter, he made the balance of the machine. The wheels are from a lawn mower and garden scuffer; spray tank is a 12-gallon barrel; pulleys, he made from wood and put in metal hubs; all connection are made from iron. An ordinary No. 1 hand spray pump is attached. The pressure tank is a cast oil filter off a passenger bus. He gets 75 to 100 pounds pressure and uses his outfit to spray full-grown trees as well as currant bushes, potatoes, etc. The tractor outfit he also uses to plow and cultivate his "fruit farm" which consists of the back ends of two large lots, the houses of which face on Park Road. He farms this bit of land intensively and last year took off 1,000 baskets of cherries, berries, peaches, plums, pears, strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries and currants and all the garden truck the family could use.

Facts And Fancies

Frank Fairburn, Jr.

BUTCHERS HAVING HECTIC TIME

For the past two weeks Grimsby's three butcher shops have been focal points of interest in this district. In fact, at times they resembled more a crowd at an auction sale, than they did people purchasing food stuffs.

To an observer, at times, the actions of some of the people jamming the stores, bordered slightly on the hysteria side. From the attitude of a small percentage of the purchasing public one would be led to believe that they were going to starve to death within the next 24 hours.

In my opinion the local butchers have been doing an excellent job, under conditions that would try the patience of Job and a couple more like him. They have made every effort possible to get all the meat obtainable and they have done their very best to proportion it out evenly.

Several times they have been forced to close their doors in order to get their shops in order and to prepare the orders they have received in advance from householders. They have at all times been courteous which is more than can be said for some of their customers.

I have been watching this situation over a period of days and the actions of some people are absolutely disgusting. You would think they were the only ones in the world that had to have meat to eat. They never stop to realize that right now they are getting more meat in one single purchase than their English cousins are getting in a month, and they haven't got to dodge bombs to get it either.

Maybe if a bomb would drop on Main street it would do a lot of good and bring some of our people to their senses.

That the butchers are doing a great job is evidenced by the fact that they are not now receiving any more meat supply than they received in June, yet, they are feeding close to 1,000 more people and there is nobody going without.

On the first of June the local butcher shops were feeding their own normal population. Today, they are feeding that population and all the people in Grimsby Beach and the Farmerettes. With no more meat than they had the first of June.

George Fair, Superintendent of Grimsby Beach, tells me that he has 164 full cottages. They average four people to a cottage which means a population of 656. Weekends some of those cottages are housing eight, 10 and 12 people. Then we have in the immediate vicinity 100 or more Farmerettes. All these people have to be fed and fed from the same supply that the butchers were receiving the first of June.

It must also be remembered that at this season of the year, war or no war, pork is a scarce commodity and will be until the latter part of September, but a lot of people never sit down to figure those things out. They'd better start doing it, for there will be less in this country before there is more.

THE SMITH A MIGHTY MAN—

News items in the weekly press reveal that the smithy is busy this season. Shipments of horses from the west to the East have been nearly as large as usual. With many mechanics serving the King, owners of trucks and tractors are turning to the smithy for vital repairs. And with his Canadian ingenuity, the smith is keeping the horses shod and the mechanical farm equipment rolling.

The blacksmith shop, in those halcyon days a generation gone, was one of the centers of rural life. The sooty window panes were covered with spider webs; the rough splintery floor was black and grimy; shoes of all sizes hung on the rafters overhead.

One end of the smoky shop was a monstrous conglomeration of old wheels broken cultivators, discarded horsehoes, pieces of wood, sections of machinery.

Pervading all was that delightful, mysterious pungent odor compounded of hoof parings, coal, dust, and the blackish water in which the red-hot shoes were plunged to be cooled.

There are men, yes, and women too, sitting in city offices today who remember taking Buttercup and Daisy to the blacksmith for a set of shoes. They will be glad to know that the brawny smith in his blackened well-worn leather apron is still sending showers of sparks through the air.

KNOWING THE HOME PEOPLE

Wartime conditions discourage people from travelling as usual. They promote a more intimate life at home among our townspeople. If people find it difficult to take this or that trip that they would enjoy in normal times, they can find some home activity to take its place.

Many of them spend time formerly used in travel and driving, in some form of war or community work. Thus they get better acquainted with people they had not previously met, and intimate with some whom formerly they only knew slightly.

This close touch with their neighbors helps them realize what good folks are living around them. They enjoy these closer companionships. This should equal the pleasures they miss under wartime conditions. Wartime life is not all trouble and annoyance. Many new satisfactions come when people are thrown close together by a common interest.

WHY WORRY OVER RATIONING

Our forefathers existed without sugar till the 18th century.

Coal fires till the 14th.

Buttered bread till the 15th.

Potatoes and tobacco till the 16th.

Coffee, tea or soap till the 17th.

Puddings till the 18th.

Gas, matches, or electricity till the 19th.

Automobiles and tinned goods till the 20th.

So why worry over rationing or shortages? The old boys managed to get along fairly well.

REFLECTIONS IN THE ZOO

Scientific planning of our post-war society being the order of the day, says The Printed Word, it seems strange that no one has yet got around to making a few laboratory tests of the new ideas. A chemist with a new explosive in mind would have the elementary caution to work out his formula in a test-tube and ascertain its properties and peculiarities, before he mixed a batch of a ton or two. No matter how safe his formula was in theory, he would know that there is an innate cussedness in chemicals that lies in wait for the unwary.

Laboratory tests of social security should not be difficult to arrange. There is a ready-made laboratory in Riverdale Park, Toronto, where the city supports a small zoo. There are lions, tigers, bears, monkeys and several other animals leading a sheltered and ostensibly care-free existence. They are fed regularly at the public expense, and receive expert medical attention if they fall ill.

It seems an ideal existence. The benign expression on the lion's face perhaps reflects the inner wisdom born of long days of contemplation. The polar bear also appears content, except on the hottest days, when he utters a trace of nostalgia for the Arctic. Nevertheless, he is a sensible creature, and after many years experience of social security, he has no doubt come to realize how fortunate he is to be enjoying the cultural and social amenities of Toronto instead of waiting for a seal on an ice-floe in Lancaster Sound.

The monkeys, more gregarious than lions and polar bears, seem to get more positive enjoyment out of life. They are always interested in watching the peculiar antics of their cousins on the far side of the bars, and one gets the impression that their comments are pithy, if not invariably polite. The cynical glance that a monkey casts towards the taxpayer who supports him indicates an intellectual appreciation of life in the zoo. The monkey has no intention of relinquishing his social security. He can judge how far it is safe for him to go. He knows exactly when the taxpayer must be flattered or amused, and when he may be treated with contempt.

The larger animals keep their feelings to themselves, except when a dog evades the strict rule of the park and wanders past their cages. Then bedlam breaks loose. Deep-throated howls of jealousy are heard all over the park. The intruder may be the ugliest little unwashed mongrel that roams the streets, in daily peril from traffic and dog-catchers; but he is free.

Away Back When

Frank Fairburn, Jr.

Did you know that there is a portion of an old bake oven still standing on the Grimsby Bakery property on Depot Street that was built close to 75 years ago (just when, no one seems to know) that served for many years. The earliest information available goes back to the late sixties when David Chase ran a business there. After him came John Underhill about 1870, and about ten years later James S. Kemp bought the business. In November, 1905, Mr. Kemp decided to go west and sold out to J. W. Warden.

After "Joe" Warden came Donald McQuillan about 1885. In 1889 William March came in and he in turn passed it to the "Chambers Bakery"—William Chambers and J. Harvey Foster in the fall of 1890. The following spring (1890) McQuillan came back and after a short stay sold to H. H. Parrell, who had also another shop on Depot street and wished to expand.

In about three years T. J. Noble bought the business and he in turn sold to W. L. Stephen in 1897. Mr. Stephen ran the business for eight years, selling to his son K. M. Stephen in 1905. In 1909 K. M. sold to George Sauter and from then until now several have had a turn at the wheel, the twelve years from 1909 to date seeing ten changes in ownership. George Sauter was in the business for about a year, selling in 1910 to David Orr, who remained about two years. Mr. Orr opened the first downtown store. The Rev. G. M. Ross had it for about a year, selling on July 1, 1913 to Thelma Bros. who conducted it for three years to June, 1916 when they sold to Samuel Piott, who in a short time took in James Henderson, the firm becoming Piott & Henderson. This too was of short duration John Henderson buying Mr. Piott's interest and it became Henderson Bros. That was early in 1918 and remained as such until the spring of 1921 when J. R. Beckett & Son took it over and the Hendersons went on a visit to the Old Country. On their return about November 1, they repurchased the business and almost immediately resold to A. Jarvis who still conducts the business.

In these days of confusion and explosion it may not be out of the way to recall the days of the early settlers, our forefathers, when the clang of the bell in the woods told of the safety of the herd and of a supply of milk, butter, cheese and meat, cheap and plenty—the days when the song of the spinner mingled with the hum of the wheel and clothing, even "homespun," was provided for all without undue anxiety; the days of sleek oxen coming home from the old water mill with the grist, drawing the lynch-pin wagon, creaking and bumping over the uneven roads; when the bread question gave no further thought, at least to the chief provider. Of course, the bread mixer and baker had to send through the woods to the nearest neighbour to borrow yeast, now and then, but this merely lent a touch of sociability to the life. It didn't matter much if occasionally the first-born was cradled in a sap-trough; it was an introduction to the simple life, and started him or her on the journey without many of those habits we could well do without.

From an old account book kept in the eighteenth-thirty by a sterling old pioneer of well known name up in the township of York we get an idea of the prices then prevailing. If any man in those days showed the profiteering tendency he at once lost caste in the community, and the little ups and downs in prices were from causes obvious to all.

Referring to this old account book it is entered that William Edmonds hired with this settler for one year, from October 1, 1832, at the rate of $10 per month, out of which wage he paid 2s 6d for "washing" per month, i.e. his clothes, and several entries charge him with 20 cents per pound for tobacco.

In April, 1833, Jane Jackson commenced work "at the rate of 17s 6d per month." (This was Canadian currency of four dollars to the pound and 20 cents to the shilling). Jane paid at the rate of 2s 6d per yard for white flannel and blue flannel; a silk handkerchief 2s 6d, a pair of shoes 12s 6d for a woman and trimmings 7s 6d, and for making two new coats 6s 3d.

In July, 1834, Thomas H.—helped stack in return for 2s 6d per day and in Aug. he charged 2s 6d for rumping—with a sickle. In September the old saw of 2s 6d per day came into force again for "laying", payment for all this being made partly in cash and partly in produce, such as "six bushels turnips at 1s per bushel" and "potatoes at 1s per bushel." In 1835 harvest commenced August 29, reaping finished September 5 and drawing was all done by September 15. In this year the "hired man" expended 1s 10s for a pair of calfskin boots, $9.50 for a watch, $3 10s for a gun and $1 10s for a suit of clothes.

Another entry ran, "Paid the pharmacologist for Priscilla, 1s 16"—a not exorbitant sum even, considering that this science was in its infancy.

William Greenway took the contract of chopping 104 cords of wood at 40c per cord, and this wood was sold all the way from 2s 9d to 5s per cord.

The hire for a team of oxen was 2s 6d per day. Oats brought 1s 7d per bushel, while wheat seemed steady at about 6s or 6s 3d per bushel.

Life on the farm had its worries then as now, an entry informs us: "Began haying July 23 (1837) and finished August 19 and by had management and wet weather for two weeks it has been nothing but one continued scene of vexation and disappointment and expense. In addition to all these there was one stack heaved and it was taken down after the hay was injured very much." This same year "harvest commenced" August 21 and with late work and hard scratching finished drawing September 4.

Some of the entries are made in £ s d and some in dollars and cents. They tell of the best clear pine lumber sold at Fisher's mill for 96 per thousand and feet—soring, standing, plank, lath, etc.; of the sale of several cwt. of fresh beef at 4½c to 5c per pound, mutton 8c per pound and pork 5c per pound. There is an item for weaving 122 yards of blue flannel and white flannel at 15c per yard, paid in part with wood at $1 per cord and hay at 50c per cwt. A spinning wheel cost 11s 3d and for carding 81 pounds of wool for spinning on the new wheel, the sum of 11 3d is charged.

OLD AND NEW IN STATION FASHIONS

EACH is a choice example of an up-to-date minute structure of its period. At the top is seen the new Canadian National Railway Central Station in Montreal now in service after being inaugurated by the Minister of Transport. Below is a view of old Bonaventure Station taken in 1888 when it was opened for business. The photograph was taken by William Notman, whose pictures of Montreal old and new form part of the historical record of the Metropolis.

The upper photograph was taken from the Dorchester Street Bridge which is 30 feet above the level of the passenger concourse, the building being at the edge of a plain approximately 225 feet in width. The motor cars are parked on the bridge. The lower photograph taken 55 years ago is dated by the horse-drawn vehicles and when closely examined the old negative shows that some of those standing at the station edge were what the old time reporters termed "short equipages." The original structure was up to date when opened for service to the travelling public. It was illuminated at night by open arc lamps which splattered and cast unusual shadows but were highly regarded as evidence of progress. In 1916 a serious fire gutted the interior and when the structure was rebuilt the three towers were not replaced. In its present form the station served countless thousands of travellers who found it a convenient friendly place.

Old Bonaventure welcomed numerous distinguished travellers including Royalty. It will remain in service for suburban trains and part of the structure will be remodelled to serve men and women of the active forces travelling in and out of Montreal by special train. The Central Station now in use is the last word in railway passenger structures, being equipped with every convenience to assist the traveller. The public concourse through which travellers pass to and from the train tracks contains the entire floor space of Bonaventure with 13,000 square feet to spare. The Central Passenger station is the focal point of an important terminal development which will greatly improve Canadian National facilities in and around Montreal. These improvements are of service in Canada's war effort because they allow of quick and direct movement of passenger and freight trains moving troops and supplies essential to that war effort.

Earth's Common Things

Dream not of noble service elsewhere wrought;
The simple duty that awaits thy hand
Is God's voice uttering a Divine command,
Life's common deeds build all that saints have wrought.

In wonder-working, or some bush affame,
Men look for God and fancy Him concealed;
But in earth's common things He stands revealed
While grass and flowers and stars spell out His name.

Sewing Made Fun!

If you sew but feel the need occasionally of professional advice, you'll like Constance Talbot's Complete Book of Sewing. She untangles all the puzzles and solves all the problems with copious illustrations and diagrams and simple explanations.

The chapter on Teaching Your Daughter to Sew will meet the needs of many mothers whose young daughters are developing an urge to make a dress. "Beginners," Miss Talbot says, "should choose their own patterns and fabrics. Without any help, they should assemble the trimming and anything else they may need. Make no suggestions that she must learn to hem before she makes a dress." Emphasis is placed on the fact that mother is not to help, that the garment is one that she really wants, and that it should be made in a hurry.

If you are planning to make the children's new school clothes this month, all ready for September 1st, Constance Talbot's book will be a good friend. Better yet, as a birthday present to the girl who wants to sew it's tops.

Our Native Palm Tree

Pointing to the thick growth of sumac that coated one of the terraces of the Forty a visitor remarked: "Who said palms didn't grow in Canada? Look at that!" It's true. Next time you pass a thicket of sumac stop and take a good long look at the graceful fronds and the torchlike crimson fruits that light up the bushes.

The sumac is one of the best-known but least appreciated of our native shrubs. It would make a handsome addition to any garden, but must be disciplined to keep it within bounds, for it spreads like a neglected weed if left to its own devices. It will grow on rocks, sand or in ordinary garden soil.

Remember the Smoke-tree that once grew in old gardens? Grandma used to cut the feathery plumes when dry and use them for indoor winter decorations. It belongs to the Sumac family. So does our old enemy, Poison Ivy, but don't let this alarm you, for sumac, treated with proper respect, will harm no one.

Sumac is at its decorative best in the fall when its foliage turns a more brilliant red than almost any other tree or shrub.

August Harvest

Now's a good time for harvesting garden seeds. Try to save the best seed head on each kind of annual grown, for next spring seeds will more than likely be in shorter supply than they have ever been. When the best blossom appears, tag it and mark on it the colour, the name, and any other identifying information.

Some plants have to be watched carefully, like balsam and portulaca; for they have a habit of burying their seed pods when you're not looking and scattering their seeds over the ground. Shirley poppies, daisy ladies in organ; frocks, shake their seeds out through little doors.

Did you grow nigella this year? It seems very scarce lately, but no real garden is complete without its delicate perfume. Bringing in a small mixed bouquet from the garden the other day we noticed a curious formation on a calliopis petal. Closer scrutiny revealed a bright gold spider, matching exactly the colour of the flower with the addition of a bright red triangular trimming band surrounding his body. Later on he was found suspended from a rose but had changed his colour to tone with its cream and apricot tints.

Wartime Waiters Learn To "Wait"

ENLISTMENT in the armed services has taken many experienced waiters from Canadian National Railways dining car duty. They are replaced by younger men not subject to immediate call. Veteran dining car waiters instruct the newcomers in the fine points of providing the courteous service for which Canadian National's service is noted. Above, Stewart William Hector, veteran Canadian National waiter, gives a demonstration to F. Balasoff (left), 19 years old; R. Karpak (child from left) 19, and Joe Lemke (right), 18. Looking on is R. Paul, an old-timer in dining car service, who is standing in the centre.

Here Quench Your Thirst

Over in Miss Mallow's side yard is a barrel-stave hammock. It's hung just where it ought to be: under a big motherly apple tree, the foot of the hammock being attached to the clothes post. Up the clothes post clammers a pretty vine, hyacinth bean, so named from the exquisite blue of its flowers that hang in small wistaria-like clusters. Reaching out seeking tendrils it has caught hold of the boughs of the tree and pulled itself up and over the robins nest, which it has festooned with blue blossoms.

It's a quite restful spot to spend a warm Sunday afternoon. Near the hammock are three or four rustic garden chairs and a long, comfortable oak seat. When extra accommodation is required there is always a rug or two to spread on the smooth grass.

Between the two big spruces at the end of the garden you look out under rows of peach trees to the cool, blue strip of Lake Ontario at the foot of the long orchard. The chicken yard at the side is bordered with tall sunflowers holding their heavy heads, like big golden platters, tipped on edge. It's a favourite meeting ground for black-and-yellow wild canaries. Alternating with the sunflowers are scarlet runners trained up the high whitewashed picket fence.

In the foreground is the old-fashioned pump, sheltered under its own little roof jutting out from the kitchen porch. The most delicious water in the world gushes from that green pump. As the custom is on these summer Sunday afternoons, our hostess fills her best cut glass pitcher at the pump and from it fills seven glasses. And now we drink our summer toast.

"Here's to Water—pure, wholesome and sparkling. Without it no infant can thrive, no child can grow, no adult can survive, no state can stand, no nation can endure."

Barnyard Golf

On their one leisure morning of the week certain stalwarts of Grimsby foregather at a farm on the environs of the town to indulge in a quite game of barnyard golf or, in plain English, pitching horseshoes.

Between the barn and the orchard, and sheltered from too much sun and wind by both, is a smooth strip of grass that makes an ideal location for the ancient and honourable sport. A couple of railroad spikes are the "hole" and the game is played with real horseshoes, as it ought to be.

Quito is an old game, dating far back into English history. Perhaps the Roman soldiers in Britain waiting at the crossroads blacksmith shop for their horses to be shod waited away the time pitching horseshoes. King Arthur's Knights may have kept themselves in trim, between exploits, in like manner. More than likely the Saxons brought it over with them to Little Treasure Island when they left the banks of the Elbe and the Weser and pushed off to the west in search of adventure, conquest, and their own particular place in the sun.

Back in the days of Edward III the sport became so popular that the people neglected the practice of archery (compulsory in those times when every man, whatever his trade or calling, was also a soldier at the call of his lord, and battles were fought with bow and arrow). Indeed the passion for the game went so far that in 1345 the king prohibited it, along with the pastimes of "throwing stones, wood and iron," and recommended the use of the longbow.

In a small book, English Sports and Pastimes, published in 1832, and illustrated with steel engravings, we find this description—"To play this game (quits), an iron pin, called a hob, is driven into the ground; and at the distance of eighteen or twenty yards another pin is similarly fixed. The players stand at one of these pins, and throw an equal number of quits at the other; the nearest of them to the hob are reckoned towards the game. When they have cast all their quits, the candidates go over to the point at which they have been throwing, and when they have determined the state of the game, they throw their quits back again at the hob where they had before stood; and thus continue to act on alternate sides till the game is ended."

There you are, simple as that!

The Bell Invites

How pleasant it was last Sunday morning to hear, over the two miles that intervene, the grand old bell at Grimsby Beach calling the cottagers and their neighbours to church. Of late years its voice has been heard all too seldom. Grimsby Park was a tremendous influence for good over a very wide area, and when it fell from its high estate to the low level of a cheap amusement joint the whole area suffered accordingly.

We should like to see Grimsby Beach handed back where it belongs—to the service of God. Are there enough lovers of, and seekers after, righteousness among the population of the Beach to bring this about?

In these days of rat and gra, Grimsby Beach isn't too far from where a lot of us live. There is an inarticulate cry going up for a decent place where a man can take his family for a Saturday or Sun-

Women have invaded another man's field in the Canadian Army, no less than the paratroopers. The first of her sex to be attached to the Canadian Parachute Training School at Camp Shilo, is Private Marjorie Perry, of St. Boniface, Man. Private Perry, a member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, will not be schooled as a soldier jumper but as a "rigger" who will be charged with the care and maintenance of 'chutes.

A Creed

I believe
in all things beautiful—
The beauty of simple things.

I believe in music where melody is quickly found, and in poems that sound like song.

I believe in books that hold no ugly thought, in pictures that rest the eye and soothe the sense and in plays that keep the heart young.

Little things delight me
a sunbeam on a blade of grass;
A dew-drop in the heart of a flower;
A daisy with a tiny thrill.

I believe in joy; and quick laughter; in Sentiment, in Love, in Reverence.

I believe
in all things beautiful—
I believe in God.

Return To Simple Life

Increasing war traffic means less space for pleasure travel. Railroads are taxed to the limit transporting troops and munitions and the situation is further aggravated by wartime restrictions on gas and tires. Canadians are being asked to avoid unnecessary travel. The young couple pictured here have solved the problem by travelling on wheels. Bicycles, for those who have them, are an ideal means of transportation for a healthy, outdoor vacation.

Grimsby is not the only place that can grow beautiful flowers. One of the nicest displays of perennials in a long while came from Purdy Lake last week. They were grown by Frank and Mrs. Hiss and are just as fine as anything ever grown in this district.

There are not many fish left in the North country. Clare Rushton, Bud Rushton, Rufus McNinch, Jim Falloon, Watson McPherson and Charlie Clattenburg, cleaned them all out over the holiday week. The boys landed seven fish all told and Charlie caught six of these.

The Deputy Returning Officers who acted at the election yesterday, were J. K. Harstone, Henry Bull, A. F. Hawke, Byron Smith and Bertram Wilbert Graham, for Grimsby town. Peter Graham, W. Bengough, R. A. Lipsett, John Bowlaugh, Peter Robinson and Gordon Metcalfe in the township.

Citizens of this district who have been depending upon Charlie Harris, of Beamsville to clean out their chimneys and flues this summer will have to wait awhile yet. Charlie while engaged on war work at St. Catharines, last week, had the misfortune to break his right arm. He expects to be able to get at his regular work some time in September.

Andy Swayne, the Big Dirt Farmer of Robinson street, reports that he has had to use six foot grape posts for his staked tomatoes as the stalks were so large and the crop so heavy. He estimates that he will get three bushels of luscious tomatoes to a vine. That story, folks, shows that Andy is coming back fast, after his severe illness.

Royal Anne and Windsor cherries weighing one hundred and eight thousand pounds have just arrived in Montreal over the lines of the Canadian National Railway from Peachland, E.C., to be processed at a Lachine plant into tempting red and green Maraschinos. The cherries were packed in half-filled apples boxes without covers and were laden in three of the latest type overhead food refrigerator cars with side flues providing complete circulation of cooled air, these cars being designed and developed by mechanical experts of the National System. Each car contained 1,127 boxes which occupied all the available space.

Early Beginning Of Service Clubs

One Was Formed In London in 1710 For The Preservation of Friendship and Good Neighbourhood.

That they had service clubs, of a kind, well over two centuries ago is attested to by the following set of rules to be observed in the "Two Penny Club", established in the year 1710 in London, Eng. for the Preservation of Friendship and Good Neighbourhood:

- (1) Every member at his first coming in, shall lay down his two-penny.
- (2) Every member shall fill his pipe out of his own tobacco box.
- (3) If any member absents himself, he shall forfeit a penny for the use of the Club, except in case of sickness or imprisonment.
- (4) If any member swears or curses, his neighbour may give him a kick upon the shins.
- (5) If any member tells stories in the club that are not true, he shall forfeit for every third lie a half-penny.
- (6) If any member strikes another wrongfully, he shall pay the club fee for the member he has struck.
- (7) If any member brings his wife into the club, he shall pay for whatever she drinks or smokes.
- (8) If any member's wife comes to fetch him home from the club, she shall speak to him outside the door.
- (9) If any member slanders another, he shall be turned out of the club.
- (10) No person shall be admitted into the club that is of the same trade with any member already in it.
- (11) No member of the club shall have his clothes or shoes made or mended, but by a brother member.

HEAT VALUE OF VARIOUS FUEL WOODS

With the wood-fuel shortage likely to be aggravated by a serious shortage of coal next winter, some Canadian municipalities are working out plans for community woodpiles. In addition, many individual householders are making their own arrangements to cut at least a part of their wood supply. As a guide to inexperienced cutters, the Municipalities and Supply Department offers the above chart, which indicates the proportionate usefulness of the more common firewood trees in Canada.

In the town the centre ward and the south ward gave Daley small majorities over Haines. In the north ward Haines had a majority over Schroeder of 38 and over Daley of 46.
In the township Daley polled majorities in three divisions and Haines in two.
The big feature of the election locally was the vote rolled up by the C.C.F. candidate. In 1937, Schroeder only had 19 votes in the town against 231 yesterday. In the township last election he polled 22 votes and yesterday he garnered 188.

Clothes For The Army

Since the war began the length of cotton used for khaki shirts and other articles of cotton for the armed forces would stretch around the earth at the equator with enough left over to reach from Winnipeg to Vancouver and back. In the picture above, piles of khaki broadcloth shirts are being stacked in a western garment factory. This factory delivers more than 5,000 of these shirts every week.

FARM PRICES UP 43% SAYS DONALD GORDON

Production of food ranks with production of tanks, guns and planes, Donald Gordon, Prices Board Chairman told Alberta farmers at Lethbridge recently. Mr. Gordon said total volume of food production last year was up 25 per cent above pre-war levels. This was the more striking, he said, since the manpower shortage has fallen heavily on agriculture. Aside from subsidies, farm prices have risen 43 per cent, Mr. Gordon said. If wheat were left out of the picture, the average increase would be 50 per cent. He warned that although farm prices to increase so lowing farm could compete for that farmers would result in the appearance of "the spiral."

Flight Record Made in Canada's Trans-Atlantic Service

A Trans-Canada Air Lines crew established a new non-stop record from Montreal to Britain, flying the transport plane in the Canadian Government's new wartime trans-Atlantic service for the carriage of mail to and from the Dominion's overseas forces. From the take-off in Montreal to the landing in Britain the elapsed time was 12 hours and 26 minutes, 25 minutes faster than the previous best time. Trans-Canada crews will be regularly engaged in the new service and the plane carried a second T.C.A. crew to Britain in addition to three official passengers and mail. BURTON BENTLEY

In making the announcement of Mr. Bentley's appointment, Squadron Leader J. G. Ryrie, Commanding Officer of the Hamilton Recruiting Centre, pointed out that Mr. Bentley, a veteran of the last war, has offered his services as Local Recruiting Representative on a completely voluntary basis. His patriotic gesture is highly appreciated, and it is hoped that his appointment will prove of assistance to local residents, and result in many more recruits, both men and women, from the Grimsby territory. The need is great, for it is the constantly increasing air pressure that is breaking the Axis. Evidence of this is the rapid fall of Mussolini after the bombing of Rome.

CANNING SUBSIDIES

ed March 19, is: Tomatoes, $3 a ton; corn, $4; peas, $10, shelled weight, or $2 straw weight; and Beans, $7.50.

"The 1943 subsidies are higher than those received by the farmer in 1942 by $2 a ton for tomatoes and corn, $2.50 for beans and shelled peas, and 50 cents for the straw weight of peas," the Agriculture Department said in a statement.

"The reason for the increase over 1942 subsidies was to encourage this year's production of the required quantities of canning crops. Otherwise, farmers might have substituted less essential crops requiring less labor and risk to produce."

LIONS LIFE

which she gave but Ruth in her yelled for help and brought Ruth ashore. Life guard Virginia Howson applied artificial respiration and after six minutes had brought Ruth around.

There is no question but that two lives would have been lost had it not been for the great work of these two life guards.

Lions Club wish to request of the parents of children in this district that they impress upon the kiddies the necessity of co-operating and obeying the orders of the life guards if this good work is to continue.

Miss Wickham, the guard at Grimsby Beach, has now returned to her home in Toronto and Miss Douglas of Grimsby, who has been especially trained, this work has been appointed to the position.

FRUIT GROWERS

meet expenses with approximate crop of 35% of last year's rather good crop. It will be necessary for the price of canning goods to be considerably higher than in 1942.

If the fruit crop for canning and jam purposes is required as it is claimed for feeding the armed forces the fruit growers of the fruit district of Ontario are quite prepared to divert for processing at least 50% of the fruit. As a proof, his many growers have signed additional contracts subject to approval of price.

If it is the desire of the Government to treat all the citizens of Canada alike when it comes a national duty to see to it that the fruit growers, facing the calamity that has befallen them, are given assistance either by providing greater returns per package or by direct subsidy as were the wheat growers in Western Canada during the drought years.

No, hum! So many people can talk faster than they think.

Bombs in general use by the R.A.F. in 1940 weighed 500 pounds. By March, 1942, bombs weighing 4,000 pounds were used and by September 1942, we were dropping bombs weighing 8,000 pounds.

C.P.R. Beats Obstacles to Move Wartime Shipments

PARTICULARLY adapted for handling outside and odd-shaped war shipments, Canadian Pacific Railway flat cars shown above — empty and with loads of boilers for corvettes, a huge transformer and a welded-steel boat — have been of great aid to the war effort of Canada and the United States. Recently the company's largest depressed-centre flat cars, one of which is pictured at the bottom of this layout, were the only ones which could handle a 150-ton tank — 385 feet long and 18½ feet in diameter — from Lachine, Que., to a synthetic rubber plant in southwestern Ontario.

Two of these huge cars now are on loan to the United States handling marine engines for the Kaiser ships, a type of shipment in which the Canadian Pacific pioneered, as illustrated upper right, where two smaller depressed-centre flat cars are shown, each loaded with a corvette boiler. These important shipments towered 21 feet, five inches above top of rail when blocked up to get them by certain half-deck girder spans on many bridges and at some bridges this blocking had to be removed, while the boilers were held up by jacks, and the shipment lowered to clear the bridge.

The company's engineering department laid down the special moves necessary to get the corvette boilers from Toronto to Quebec, listing all permanent installation which had to be removed temporarily. The technique initiated by the Canadian Pacific for this movement has since been copied by other roads to the great profit of the war effort.

In the matter of the transformer (upper left) the main consideration was to get equipment heavy enough to carry it from Toronto to Milton, Ont., with its weight of 134 tons being only one on less than the maximum load capacity of the biggest depressed-centre flat car the company has in its freight rolling stock of 77,730 pounds all in weight. The boat (centre) was an awkward load with a maximum width of 23 feet, 10 inches. It was 81 feet, six inches long and was transported from Owen Sound, Ont., to Saint John, N.B., on two machinery flat cars.

SALE OF SHOTGUNS IS NOW PERMITTED

An order of the Prices Board recently issued permits the sale of all types of new shotguns in Canada and revokes an earlier order which froze the sale of 12 makes and models of 12-gauge guns. Sales of shotguns were previously restricted in order to obtain an inventory and to permit the Depart-

"Canadians Magnificent"

"I know well the fighting men of Canada. They are magnificent soldiers and the long and careful training they have received in England will now be put to good use to the great benefit of the 8th Army". This was the greeting accorded Canadian troops joining the British 8th Army for the Sicilian campaign by the fighting 8th's famous leader, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, shown here (left) with Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Deputy Commander-in-Chief of Allied forces in North Africa.
